Reflections

On The Lake

Harvey Huffman believes that the Optimists Safety Contest will start about April 17. Local observers are wondering which will appear first—the bottom of the lake or the lake dedication program. Mrs. Velma Lake is evidently eyeing a spot on the volunteer fire brigade, with her car car newly painted fire-engine red. Bill Coppel says you can't operate an outboard engine without a choke. The Javelin business is so being so good might persuade Held to get into that manufacturing business exclusively. Among those who will be off and Yellowtailing Monday are Dave Carender and Buford Trillers. The building business in and around Lakeside is at an all time high. With activity scheduled soon at the electronic site northwest of here and at the wind tunnel site southeast, the boom will be down around our ears before you can say "The Devil's siphoning the water out of the lake." Wilard Westphall announced that a Cub Scout pow-wow will be held May 12 at San-tee School, and an area camporee at El Monte Park April 14 and 15.

COLORADO WEEK-END

Classes For Safe Boating Open April 2

San Diego Units of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will begin classes in seamanship and boat safety beginning April 2.

"With the summer season fast approaching, it is important that local boat enthusiasts be fully informed in all aspects of water safety and good seamanship," said Elliott Pohl, flotilla commander.

The instructive classes are a public service feature of the Auxiliary, open to everyone of all ages free to attend. They are designed to promote wider knowledge of laws, rules and regulations covering the operation of motorboats and yachts.

The first meeting will be held April 2, 8:00 p. m., at the San Diego Speedboat Club on Harbor Drive opposite Ryan Aircraft. Instructor will be Finley Jones, training officer of Division I, U.S. C.C. Auxiliary. Jones is past captain, U. S. Merchant Marine, and former Coast Guard officer.

Subsequent classes on fire fighting, rules of the road, navigation, engine maintenance will be held every Monday night through May 7.

Zoo-news To Be Topic At Meeting

Dr. Charles R. Schroeder, managing director of the San Diego Zoo, will be guest speaker at the quarterly ladies night meeting of the Foothills Retired Officers Club, in Lemon Grove on Tuesday, April 3, at 7 p. m.

Dr. Schroeder's talk will cover interesting and entertaining experiences with wild animals and zoo operation. Club president, LCdr. J. C. Weems USN (ret.) announced that officers in the military service, active or retired, their wives or guests are cordially invited. Reservations may be telephoned to the club secretary, Lt. D. H. Huston AUS (ret.) at HO 6-9177.

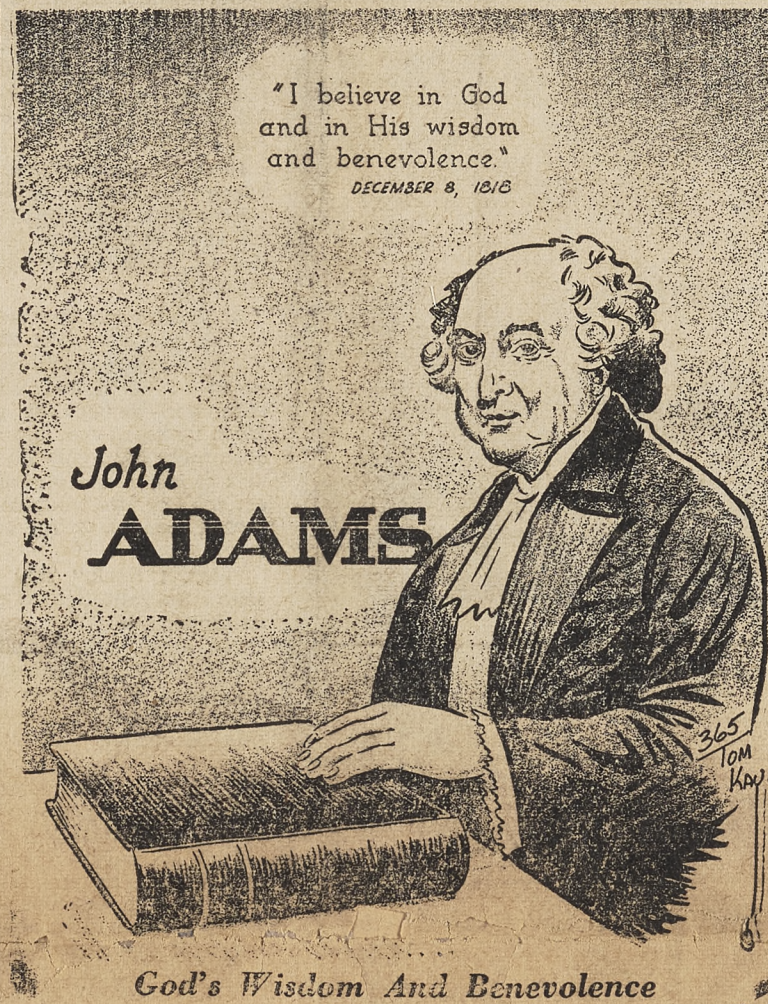

Four points was the difference between victory and defeat at Grosmont's track squad downed Sweetwater Friday 54 to 50. This was the first league meet for both schools.

Bill Walters, ace century man for the Red Devils, was hailed the fastest sprinter in the Metro League as he broke the Sweetwater High School record in the excellent time of 9.8. Walters held the previous record of 9.9 and is now gunning for a 9.7 century.

Another first but not a record, was Grossmont's Jim Griswold who rambled the one mile jaunt in 31.05. Griswold has run the miles in 4:28.6 and promises to become one of the top performers.

Coach Lawrence Head's field squad broke even in the meet. Jim Wade recorded the most out-

THE AMERICAN WAY

80,000 To Fish For Big Prize

The tenth annual Yellowtail Fishing Derby opens Saturday, March 31.

This is the fishing classic which offers about $25,000 in prizes. Last year 80,000 persons participated. They caught 42,812 yellowtail, 22,260 albacore and 1,201 bluefin tuna, the only sport species which qualify in the derby.

In addition, countless barracuda, calico bass and white sea bass were dragged from the depths. It was during the derby last season, too, that four black sea bass totaling 1,200 pounds were caught in two days.

Top fish last year was a 50-pound yellow landed by Dick Fleming of San Diego from the Point Loma kelp beds.

Four prizes worth a total of $750 are offered opening day. The top fish will earn a 15-h.p. outboard motor for its captor. Smaller fish will be worth a 17-inch television set, a 3-h.p. motor and an ocean spinning rod and reel.

Jaycee chairman Wally Featheringill announced that there will also be a public drawing on opening day for sports fishing passes and fishing equipment. The drawing is set for 1 p. m. Saturday, at the sports fishing piers, foot of Fenelon Street.

Three Derby Days are scheduled for this year's Yellowtail Fishing Derby: June 1, July 27 (Fiesta del Pacifico Derby Day), and September 22. First prize on each day of the Derby Days will be a 1956 station wagon.

TRUMPETER

Tom Neal, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Neal, will be heard with the Lowerison Trumpet Chorus here, at Frontier Riders Easter Sunrise Service. Mrs. Thomas Neal will serve breakfast to the Youth Group of Four Square Gospel Church, at her home following the service.

TURKEY SHOOT

Music Will Be Highlight Of School Week

A featured event during the 37th annual observance of Public Schools Week here will be an all-elementary school music festival scheduled Sunday, April 29, at 4 p. m. in Hoover auditorium.

The concert, to be given by the all-city elementary band and all-city elementary orchestra, formerly has been held at Balboa Bowl either on Mother's Day or during Music Week. This year, however, because of traffic congestion in the park area, the groups will perform at Hoover High School.

Children participating in the music festival have been recommended for their musicianship by the eight area instrumental teachers, and represent almost all city elementary schools.

The orchestra, directed by Kenneth Owens, consists of 90 members and rehearses each Tuesday evening at Garfield School. The 125-member band, organized only last year by its director, Daniel Magnusson, rehearses each Tuesday evening at Central School.

The groups will perform individually and together, with a few outstanding students appearing in ensemble or solo. The program highlights the children's work for the year.

Interest In Polo Is High

The local polo scene is taking shape, according to Jim Scott trainer for local enthusiasts.

He has 10 head of thoroughbred polo ponies here, and two head owned by Dr. E. H. Hering.

The local polo team includes Dr. Hering, Bill Allen and Scott. They play teams at La Jolla and Rancho Santa Fe every other Sunday, alternately.

Scott is also coaching a local girls' polo club composed of Janice Nuttall, Pat Edwards, Judy Beidler, Lynn Powers, Barbara Simpson, Betty Gillespie, Judy Puhn and Mrs. Nancy Jones.

CHURCH PLAY

Members of Lakeside Church of Christ will present an Easter play Sunday in War Memorial Building.

The play, "Release," under the direction of Darlene Jenkins includes in the cast: Carol, David and Mrs. Christian, Leonard, Melville, Curtis Sayer, Ray Stradley, Jim Hozer and Elmer Jenkins.

NEW EMPLOYEE

Carroll Ray is now a member of Lakeside Builders Store crew. He was formerly in the insurance business.

NEW ASSOCIATE

D. O. Dawson recently from Pasadena, is now associated with Bill Raper in the realty business.

One of the hottest sport centers in San Diego, the Lakeside Rodeo Arena, is reported to be for sale by present owners.

The arena has been Lakeside's greatest sports attraction for many years, and under proper management could be a financial asset.

Here is a great fund-raising media, as well as a center for a number of sport activities.

Old timers can remember when Lakeside was an outstanding racing center for horses and autos—that possibility still exists, at the Rodeo Arena.

In the opinion of experts, the civic minded should be alerted that this valuable community asset does get out of local hands and management.

Baseball Mites Set For Drills

He emphasized that all work on the field is done by volunteers, who are willing to help further this program for youth of the Lakeside area.

NEW BABY

Mr. and Mrs. William Ames of Chula Vista, formerly of Lakeside, are the proud parents of an eight pound boy, who arrived last Saturday at Mercy heirport.

Call Is Out For Retired Teachers

Former teachers will be encouraged to return to the classroom through means of a new retraining program revealed this week in a joint announcement by the San Diego City Schools and the San Diego State College.

The retraining program, to begin during the coming summer session at State College, represents an extension of activities of the San Diego Teacher Recruitment and Training program administered jointly by the city schools and the college for more than two years.

This is the activity better known as the teacher intern training program.

Mrs. Dan Henry, executive secretary of the local recruitment organization, said that under the retraining program former teachers would be encouraged to return for a "brushup" course at State College.

Following completion of the course, they would return, under contract, to classroom teaching for one semester under direction of an experienced advisory teacher. At the end of that semester they would be assigned a classroom "on their own" as a regular teacher.

Principal and vice-principals who will be in charge of the San Diego City Schools' three high are:

Hoover High—Charles L. Wilson principal and Mrs. Mary M. Donaldson vice-principal.

Mission Bay High—Dr. Ralph V. Patrick principal, and Mrs. Laura E. Stubbs vice-principal.

San Diego High—Norman W. Houser principal, and Mrs. Margaret G. Covey vice-principal.

THINGS TO TALK ABOUT
BY FRANKLIN J. MEINE
Editor, American Peoples Encyclopedia

PARROTS LIVE TO A COMPARATIVELY GREAT AGE IN THE BIRD WORLD. THERE ARE MANY RECORDS OF THEIR REACHING 35, 50, AND EVEN TO YEARS.

Of the 70 million bushels of peaches produced annually in the United States, California (not Georgia) grows between one-third and one-half of the total.

THE BIBLE says that not even a cup of water given in God's name will go unrewarded. Every act of kindness is a gesture of transcendent worth.

There is a story told about a certain rich man which clearly illustrates how immeasurably great a single deed of love may be.

Warned that his end was not far off, the rich man ordered everything he owned to be sold and the proceeds to be used to buy a large diamond that he could hold in the hollow of his hand and carry with him even in death.

After his instructions had been carried out, the man fell into a deep sleep and dreamed he stood before the gates of Paradise. To his great dismay, he found he had lost the diamond.

He related his loss to an angel at the gate who told him not to worry, that one good deed on earth would be worth far more to him than any amount of diamonds. When he heard this, the man grew even more disturbed. He confessed that he had no memory of any kind act done by him while on earth.

"Not even one?" The angel produced.

"Well, I think," said the man, after some reflection, "I once dried an orphan's tear."

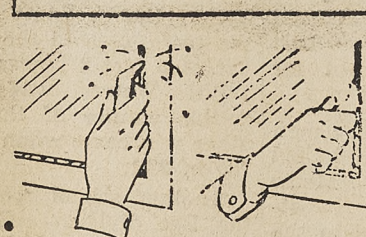

The angel smiled and replied: "That tear is laid up here for you. Behold it! It sparkles ten times more brilliantly in our sight than all your earthly jewels."

The man woke up at this point, and he was so impressed by the dream that he gave orders to have the diamond sold and the money distributed among the poor. Not long afterwards, it is related, he died in great peace of soul.

"Many women would be more spic if they had less span," admits Hannah.

Handy Hints

An ordinary beer-can opener makes about the best putty knife you can find. Use the sharp point (left) to scrape away the old putty and any other foreign matter. Then turn the opener over (right) to shape and smooth the new putty. First, roll the putty into a slender roll... about the size of a lead pencil. Press it in position... and shape it with the back of your opener.

THE FARM CORNER

Summer was good, the rain just right. Corn in the field was a pleasant sight. But even though the crop was a honey, You had to convert that corn to money.

The longer you wait the more you drop. You find you lose too much of the crop. But if you pick too early and wet, You're likely to lose it quicker yet.

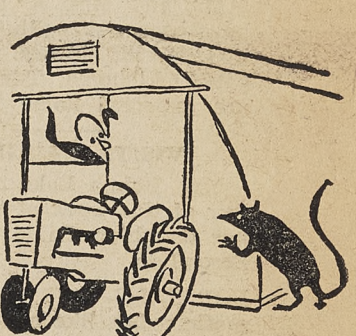

Weatherman could have spoiled the show. By bringing on some early snow. You checked the moisture in those ears. And every day increased your fears.

But you own a building with a drying fan. And pick it earlier than neighbors can. You store it and dry it without a worry. And you can seal it in a hurry.

To get the most for your corn crop. You hold it at harvest when prices drop. You store it and sell it later on. When most of the ready supply is gone.

It's safe from rats, clean and dry. You find the quality stays real high. When the corn is sold, then you decide. What else you'd like to store inside.

Novel Way To Serve Breakfast Oranges

If breakfast time is just one mad rush at your home, here's an idea for getting the family off to a good start with fresh California oranges: Have one orange for each member of the family. For hurry-up serving, as well as fast eating, cut the orange into halves starting at the top and going almost to the bottom peel. Cut each half into quarters and then each quarter into eighths. It's as simple as can be; with four quick cuts of the knife, the orange is ready to serve. Pull each piece apart slightly until it resembles opening flower petals. To dress up the orange, you could insert a cluster of grapes or a maraschino cherry in the center. Orange sections served this way can be pulled apart in a jiffy and eaten watermelon style.

By giving your family fresh whole oranges for breakfast, you're providing them not only with vitamin C and other important nutrients, but also the newly recognized protopectins. These remarkable protopectins aid in digestion and help you make the best use of all foods you eat. All parts of the orange—the juice sacs, membranes, and white outer parts—contain protopectins so now it's doubly important to eat whole oranges.

Boys Are Best Crop On This Farm

Good citizens in the form of healthy young men comprise the main crop raised by William "Pop" McGurk, seen above with a sampling of his pupil-assistants in "class" on the farm they operate for St. Vincent's Children's Home at Freeport, Ill.

The 160-acre farm, which supplies food for the orphanage's 250 children and 90 elderly folk at an institution for the aged, is operated by modern methods which teach the boys practical lessons in economical investment, labor-saving practices and high production.

The Holstein herd is handled in a loose-housing dairy set-up installed in two non-combustible Quonset buildings, shown in the lower picture. Working in and around them, the boys learn the importance of cleanliness, sanitation, proper feeding and milking operations, keeping production records and artificial insemination. Another Quonset functions for machinery storage and maintenance. This cuts equipment depreciation costs and provides room for instruction in machinery care.

Boys of high school age are "Pop's" farm helpers, for he believes in letting them learn by "do-how" instead of just "tell-how." They take turns on the morning shift, and those who aren't participating on athletic teams or in other activity handle the afternoon shift.

"You can bet your boots farming's worth while," Pop says, "especially when you've raised crops of boys like ours."

Your Home

By Frances Ainsworth

If you're like me, you've probably been looking over last year's warm-weather wearables and wondering what you can salvage for another season's wear. As for me, I discovered that my daughter, Bab, has simply outgrown all of hers. If it weren't for my well-stocked Tintex cupboard, I don't know what I'd do! But, luckily, Bab can now fit into my old togs, and I'm making them fresh-looking and color-new for her. My slacks, for instance, I cut off to make pedal pushers for Bab. Using the kind of fast-acting color remover you find at all-fabric dye counters, I took out enough of the old navy color to enable me to re-dye. Then into the dye-bath went the pedal pushers—and out they came a little later, dyed a beautiful bright green. And an old faded beach robe is now bright red—Bab loves them both! Naturally, I'm re-dyeing all of my own casuals that lost their color because of the sun and numerous washings.

It's amazing how much money we can save by tintexing old garments and home furnishings. One of my favorite budget-savers is re-dyeing my unmatched nylon hosiery

—I just use color remover first and then dye them with the special stocking dyes that come in 10 shades. Incidentally, you'll be interested in hearing about a wonderful whitening product that works miraculously on nylon, as well as all other fabrics. Called Whitex, I've used it on white curtains, blouses, and slips which have become yellowed from repeated washings—they're just like new again! You can get this wonder bluing at the dye counters.

Handy Jim's FIXIN'-UP TIPS For the Home

Panelgroove Siding

A NEW, attractive siding which is both economical and durable has been introduced and now is available at most lumber yards. Known as Masonite Panelgroove, this panel siding has distinctive-appearing grooves,  $\frac{3}{8}$ " wide, which appear vertically at intervals of 4 inches.

Made of Tempered Presdwood, a material already in wide use for exteriors, Panelgroove is distinctive for these reasons:

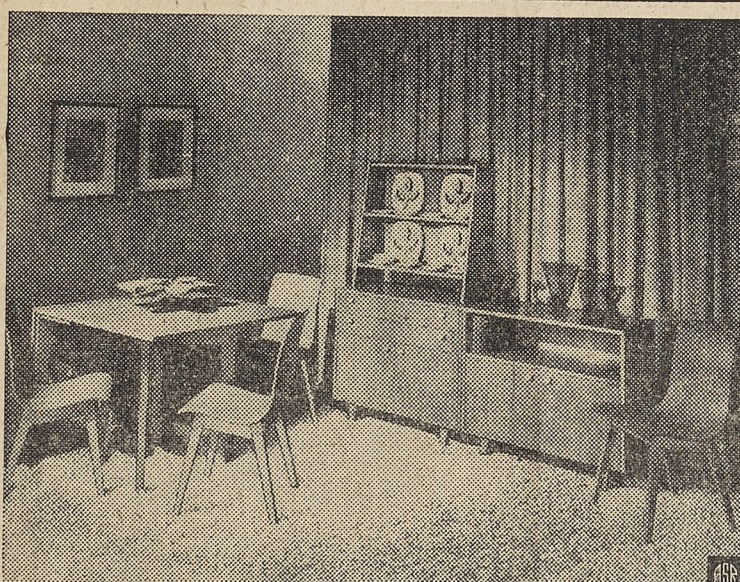

Its resistance to weather. Its dramatic appearance, which presents a pleasing architectural effect.

Its easy, economical installation due to the large size panels and shiplap joints requiring no special skills or treatment.

Available in lengths of 12' and 16' and in widths just over 4', Masonite Panelgroove may be applied directly to studs, or over sheathing. Like the plain Tempered Presdwood, Panelgroove takes and holds paint unusually well.

Furniture Fashions

Perhaps no room in the American home has undergone such a complete style change as the dining room. The dining room at the left was considered smart—and quite typical of its era—in 1926. Today, flexible modern dining room pieces adaptable for either the formal dining room or the combination dining-living room, shown at the top, are preferred by the 1952 homemaker, who more often than not does not have a separate dining room. Dining, except at holiday time, is getting more casual and informal all the time, though most women insist on a table that may be opened, on special occasions, to accommodate a full family gathering. Furniture stores are now featuring an amazing collection of items for informal meals: hostess carts on wheels, stacking tables for TV suppers, chests that cleverly provide storage space for linens, china, silver, trays, etc., and room dividers that decoratively separate the living room from the dining areas.

Now that the holiday season is approaching, the dining table is of utmost importance. The furniture shown here is of mahogany in a warm light brown finish called mocha.

Season Sandwiches With Dressing

Choosing seasoning for a sandwich is as important as choosing the filling itself. Salad dressing or mayonnaise does for a sandwich just what a fruit sauce does for a steamed pudding, or chocolate sauce does for ice cream—turns a "plain jane" into a luscious creation. Give salad dressing an opportunity to glorify all of your favorite sandwiches. Swiss Decker Sandwiches, a meal-in-one-type, please with their spread of mayonnaise and filling of boiled or baked ham, coleslaw and mellow Swiss cheese.

Swiss Decker Sandwiches

12 slices toast
Mayonnaise
6 slices boiled ham
1 cup coleslaw
6 slices pasteurized process Swiss cheese

Spread the toast with mayonnaise. For each sandwich place a slice of ham on a slice of toast, cover it with coleslaw, a slice of cheese and another slice of toast.

GOOD NEWS FOR Homemakers

Anne Marshall

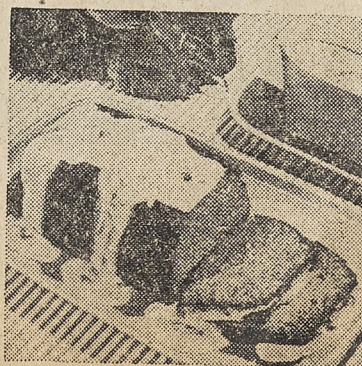

WHEN WEATHER TURNS TROPICAL, you want living to be easy as a breeze. Check your "kitchen-eering"; and you can cut cooking work down to nothing.

Follow some of these cues for easy cooking.

1. Keep meals simple—with just 3 or 4 dishes instead of great variety. For instance, you can serve meat loaf with parsley potatoes and lettuce wedges; fresh fruit for dessert. Think how much simpler this than meat loaf, potatoes, succotash, and mixed green salad; plus a fancy dessert.

2. Use all the prepared foods your grocer has. Pudding mixes, cake and biscuit mixes. Canned soups—for soups and for sauces. Frozen specialties like French fried potatoes. Canned main dishes like pork and beans, spaghetti.

3. Do two-time cooking. Fix dishes that will serve for 2 or 3 meals ahead. Like meat loaves, noodle casseroles, roasts, potatoes.

FOREVER FAVORITES in the "good food department" are dishes like juicy tender meat loaf—for warm weather eating or anytime.

1½ cups soft bread cubes
½ cup drippings and/or milk
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped parsley

Combine ½ cup soup with meat, bread, onion, parsley, egg and seasonings; shape into a loaf or pack lightly into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 1 hour. Remove loaf from pan. Pour in remaining soup, drippings (or milk) and pimiento; simmer about 5 minutes. Pour hot sauce over loaf. 6 servings.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Pearl Boutwell, Rio Vista, Calif.: I remember when my mother used a 10-gallon jar for her freezer. She would pack her fryers, after dressing 30 or 40 of them, in the jar and cover with water. They would freeze solid over night sitting on the back porch. That was in Missouri where it was zero all winter.

From Mrs. Lillie Hicks, Marengo, Ind.: I remember when mother took her clothes to the creek and washed them on a rock that slanted into the water. She scrubbed her floors with sand.

From Mrs. Clara Tutmark, Alderwood Manor, Wash.: I remember when father took me to town to get new shoes—riding in the cutter, Nellie in the traces, and a hot water jug at my feet. What fun!

From Virginia Gruver, Thompson, Utah: I remember when I cut several pairs of long stockings in pieces and sewed them together so the children's knees wouldn't show. Now they don't wear any, and not only their knees show.

From the Old Cuss, Chicago: I remember a dog-powered tread mill that was used to churn butter. A mouth-powered tread mill, powered by my first wife's jaws, would have churned lots of butter—she was always chewing the fat.

SUNDOWN ON THE PACIFIC SHORE

A novel about the Great West

BY RENAN PREVOST

Copyright by Renan Prevost, May 1955 All rights reserved

PREFACE

All thru the West there are Ghost Towns. Mostly in the region of the gold mines, of the wild, reckless days of 1849 and after. There are ruins of buildings and etc., which have a story, of the days, of glory and easy wealth for some men; and disappointment and tragic passing for other men.

About every city there are happenings of the past which are not always recorded; some men leave great names for their accomplishments, and land marks are named after them such as Parks, Streets and Schools. Also there are men, the workers who have "done the work" who are usually forgotten, with their passing on from this world. This story is about these men of great courage, supreme courage. Many of them arrived here without funds, and so gainful employment was necessary and that was work—hard work. Work not in line with their skill in a trade or profession.

Ghost towns have their story. So stories exist about buildings, water works, factories, railroads and other endeavors concerned with the earning of a livelihood. These stories become interesting, because they portray a life during the days of the past, almost forgotten. Great buildings or public utilities are usually known by the name of the man or corporation which caused the construction. Very seldom is any credit given to an architect, or the men who actually did the work. These were the men—the "brains" who were responsible for the erection of the structure or etc. And so this novel is about those "brains" and how they came West and what their life was like.

There are certain things effecting the economic welfare of men, which cause them to migrate. Generally it is promise of better living conditions or opportunities of easy attainment of wealth, thru land booms, new agricultural crops such as rare fruits, a better livable climate, as an aid to regain health, or as in the case of the colonization of this great country— an escape from persecution or oppression.

Men have been traveling to the West for generations, so we travel West with our characters, starting in 1880.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

The Livery Stable Owner.
James Twitcher in the Real Estate Business.
Jerry and the Land for Growing Lemons.

PART ONE

Then the chairman, Banker Stayson, with his air of importance, said, "Are there any new members for consideration tonight?"

"Yes, I have a man who some of you know. Mr. James Twitcher. I propose he become a member."

of protective mountains—protection from the desert heat beyond hem. To the South the mild and truly peaceful Pacific Ocean. This is truly a great natural land-locked harbor. There being only two such harbors on the California Coast. The other being at San Francisco many miles to the North. That great harbor is less safe for shipping and less easy to enter than our great harbor here. Here is less fog, less haze, and no rocks, either in the Bay or on the outside. All of which make it less difficult to enter, all through the year. Great storms are unknown to affect the waters in our Bay.

"This Chamber was organized to unite the business men of the town for the better promotion of the public interest, to aid in the development of the back country; to give reliable information of commercial advantages of our harbor, railroad.

and our natural position as a terminus for a continental "To build a city here there must be something other than land gamblers. We must have a productive agriculture in the back country and industries in the city—our agricultural products can be exported to other parts of the world. The possibilities here are tremendous in their potentialities. With unified action on our part New Town will become truly a Metropolis. But don't forget that water is the deciding factor on which all endeavors here will be regulated by. All must have water. We have it in the wet season, just flowing out to the Ocean. We must stop that with concrete dams on all the rivers.

"I am happy to have had the opportunity of speaking here tonight, and hope to become an active member of this Chamber. I thank you, one and all."

With that Twitcher sat down. What a relief, but a cherished satisfaction of speaking to the pillars of the Town.

Congratulations were extended Twitcher. Many did not expect such a speech. It was an awakening for some.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

The Famous Gas-Buggy Attachment.

PART ONE

Sunday evening, and Twitcher was home again from a back country trip, a trip to have a look-see.

Bill Williams and Jerry Todd were surely friends. So they were over to Twitchers' for a visit, the last visit before Jerry was to go to Florida for lemon trees.

"Here, my friends, are some pictures that may interest you," remarked Twitcher.

"Here is the cement kiln at Jamul; it is really big, where the bricks came from I do not know. But a lot of New Town cement was made there, some of it used at Morena Dam. That is going to be a real rock and concrete dam," said Twitcher.

"How long were you gone on the trip?" asked Jerry.

"About two weeks," allowed Twitcher. "It was the longest trip and I got a lot of pictures. Here are pictures of the water flume. This trestle is about one mile long and it is about eighty feet high in the highest place, there where you see the horse and buggy."

"What a lot of lumber was used there," added Bill.

"This picture is of another trestle which crosses a canyon. There are several this size.

"This picture is where the water is coming out of a tunnel, the flume is just on the ground.

"This is where it passes along an orange grove.

"This where it is in uncultivated open country," said Twitcher.

"Water, here is very valuable when money is spent for such a structure," added Bill.

"Yes," allowed Twitcher. "The only places where there is something growing, like oranges and lemons, in any size acreage is along the flume water system."

"Millions of board feet of the best redwood lumber, mostly two inches thick and larger was used in the thirty miles of flume; here is a supply of pure mountain water, real good water," said Twitcher.

"Thanks a lot," said Jerry. "Guess we better be going, we told our wives we would not be late, so good night, now." And the friends parted.

PART TWO

As usual on Monday morning, the gallant chariot stopped in front of the loan company, the Madam driving; her self-starter Negro in the rear seat, and on-duty watchman.

"Chug, chug," and a cloud of black smoke from the exhaust announced the arrival. Madam Fournier entered the office to make the weekly deposit.

"Howdy, Mr. Stayson. How are you today? You had a good week end I presume," remarked the Madam, who made it her business to always greet the titan of the local business world, all very much to his dislike.

Being a money lender who was seeking all the deposits possible, it became his duty to be civil in his greeting to everybody.

"Yes, a fine week end, thank you, was the reply. Always a reply, but sometimes very dry, icy cold dry.

She continued on to the deposit window, being friendly to everybody. She made friends with everybody easily.

"Well, Mr. Capitanos, it is a pleasure to meet you here, and how is the seafood business today?"

"The fish business is good, when I have fish, but when I have no fish then business is bad," replied Mr. Capitanos. His usual reply to such questions about his business. "You like fish, I hope?" he asked.

"Oh yes, sometimes. Why?" she replied.

"Up on Fifth Street there is a new restaurant which specializes in fish."

"Well fine, how about going there for dinner. I will provide the vehicle of modern transportation, to the place of hunger refreshment, and you can be my charming escort," she suggested.

"Sure, I understand. You want me to buy you a fish dinner."

"Well, that is the general idea," she answered.

They went out of the Money Emporium, both nodding a greeting to Old Stayson. They got up on the "Gallant Vehicle," then it was chug, chug, bang, ommph, ug, chug, then finally it started to the new restaurant.

Twitcher, yes, Stayson knew him. He had good reason to know him, but thought to himself, not that New England "Bumpkin," if I can help it, he won't be a member of the Chamber. Much to the displeasure of one Stayson, being chairman he was forced to extend the usual greeting.

"Mr. James Twitcher, you come here to become a member of this great body of far-seeing men of commerce and industry. We welcome you, but before you are voted on you are expected to make a speech about our great city of the super colossal southwest."

"Mr. Twitcher," and Stayson said that with a grin of unfriendliness.

"Mr. Chairman," started Twitcher. He recognized Stayson as chairman, "and gentlemen of this, the great southwest,"

Thereupon Stayson smiled, which was not very often, thinking, "He repeats like a parrot."

"Yes, the great Southwest is to become greater, that would be more in line with the status of our present city here. I came here a few years ago, and who do you think greeted me? Now there is a thought; there should be a greeting committee; for such an occasion as when people of note come here. That of course would not include me, but I was greeted on arrival by the pioneer settlers, who seem to linger here. I was greeted by the Flea. The great pioneer Southern California fleas have been here for years, that pesky flea, that selective flea. The pioneer flea who settled on the newcomer the moment he landed from the weekly ship or train from the North. That flea never liked the native Indians, those ravenous fleas, for no wonder, just think how long they waited for a more palatable race of humans to satisfy their hunger. White meat has always been more desired. The flea always on the land, be it inland or at the beaches. The flea, the unofficial receptionists of your room and mine. Maybe the Indian was acclimated to the flea or the flea acclimated to—well, anyhow, we had fleas."

The clapping of applause was stupendous, but not to the liking of one Stayson, who pounded the gavel for order.

"Our settlement here is the result of a westward movement of populations. The crowded and royalty burdened populations of Europe traveled toward the setting sun. They landed on the 'Rock bound coast of New England,' and on down to the Virginia shores. A population ever going West. So we have come West, all of us. We have come West to the wonderful land of California, land of Sunshine, or most any climatic conditions a person could desire. Snow-topped mountains bordered by deserts on the far East and tropical citrus lands on the West, along the Ocean.

"This place, settled first by the Spanish Colonization plan, effected through the Mission system. Yankee traders came here before the great gold discovery of Forty-nine. Then followed overland parties of gold seekers and later by farm settlers.

"There is a magnetic charm about this grand place. In Forty-nine it was gold, later it was oranges. Later a retreat for retirement. This is a place of exceptional opportunities, with proper development we could have unparalleled opportunities for agriculture, industry, recuperation, and retirement. In the best climate on earth, there is something here to appeal to everyone, regardless of social background, age or station in life.

"Some Irish migrated here after the potato famine in Ireland. Chinese migrated here during the Taiping rebellion of 1850. Gold discovery brought many. Political refugees from Latin America migrated here.

"Should there ever be a great draught in the expansive plain states farm country, you will see populations migrate here. Our sister cities to the North are advertising California. You all know about the 'California on wheels' train which is traveling throughout the East, displaying California agricultural products. Photographs of our great forests and gigantic farm lands, fear around sea bathing, also the daily temperature of this place as being posted in the snow-bound cities of the East. We here will benefit by that advertising.

"But there is something missing here. We have no great natural resource conveniently close, such as gold or lumbering. We have an unmatched climate and what is missing is water. Water for a great city we do not have, because a great city must have agriculture to support that city. Agriculture needs water in quantities.

"I have long wanted to become a member of this great body of men. So here I am. This Chamber of Commerce was organized in 1870, by the fathers of the town. In 1873 this was accepted as a port city of entry by the National Congress. Many men here have seen what is happening to this great Southwest. Just look across the Bay to Coronado. There in 1886 there were no inhabitants on that so-called island. By 1887 houses were being built and over a million dollars were spent to prepare the place. Lots were sold and the amounted to over fifteen million dollars. Five million dollars was spent to construct a dam and bring water from the Otay Valley. That hotel at Coronado, almost indescribable in its appointments. One of the largest hotels in the world, cost over one million dollars. It has its own steam motor railroad to bring its visitors from the Ferry landing. That hotel, surrounded by twenty acres of park, improved with many tropical plants. Many rare and exotic plants. It is all the charm of a fairy land, marvelous beyond compare anywhere in the world.

2nd ANNUAL PRESENTATION

SERAFINA

THE PLAY BY JEROME GERARD; MUSIC BY RENAN PREVOST

with additional numbers by
H. Adair Thomas

LOVE - INTRIGUE - COMEDY

A first rate tourist attraction must be original, entertaining, enjoyable and it must be seen only in one place. Tourists travel the world over to see unusual attractions. "Serafina" and "Stars in the West" can be annual attractions for San Diego. There has never been anything offered in San Diego, to compare with the possibilities of these Historical Operettas, excepting, the two great Expositions - 1915 and 1935, in our wonderful Balboa Park.

Why we offer these Operettas - The presentation of stage shows and etc., which have been produced for years, elsewhere, does not create prime tourist attractions of merit, for San Diego. Because as a rule tourists do not travel far to see stage shows, which can be seen at home or nearby.

Or to hear music which is regularly used on the radio or on records for home playing. All of which, although, said shows and music are acceptable for amusement; but, they are in reality "common stuff" and seldom attract the well informed and enlightened tourist, seeking the unusual.

A tourist attraction of supreme merit is the Historical Operetta. And produced annually in a Civic Theatre located amidst the fine buildings of Balboa Park, which is world famous and the center of culture of San Diego. We have the Russ Auditorium which will suffice until a Civic Theatre can be provided. We have the talent and the most enjoyable operetta - "SERAFINA"

These Operettas are new, with appeal unlike the over-played stage presentations of the past years.

So, - We offer these original Operettas, they can be tourist attractions unsurpassed; because they have not been produced elsewhere, most of the music has not been published, or offered for public use. Here are two historical Operettas, in all that it implies, about our San Diego.

The historical facts presented in the Operettas are such as has never heretofore been presented. Participation is available for Patrons and Sponsors send communications to -
